It is ceived indicate that auxiliary organinot known here, as yet, whether the zations have already been perfected loss of life will reach 100, as feared, or whether any bodies have been found in addition to the 22 which were recovered and identified Wednesday night. The damage caused by the fire, in the loss of the buildings, is estimated at $19,000, but the mine will have to be closed for at least a month as the mouth of the Bullion tunnel, through which the Smuggler-Union mines are worked, is the burned buildings.

The Deadly Smoke.

The smoke, from the start, seemed to be drawn to the mouth of the tunnel and it encircled that point as if there was no other place of escape. This was due to suction, as the air in the mine was warmer than that outside. On account of the suction movement the majority of mine and tunnel entrances have iron doors ready to lower in place at a minute's tional memorial at Washington." notice to stop smoke or fire. Unfortunately, the Bullion tunnel did not possess one of these safeguards. Stupefying Effect of the Fire.

It appears that much of the stupefying effect of the fire was due to the flames in the converter house, which was saturated with oil, and imaginable. The tunnel is situated about midway between the top or apex of the mine, and the ninth level. It is an intermediate working tunnel. The seventh level is 1,750 feet below the surface and the ninth level, where between 75 and 90 miners were working when the fire occurred, is 2,-000 feet below the surface.

DIRECT FROM THE SCENE.

Hope Almost Abandoned of Finding Any Alive.

Telluride, Col., Nov. 22.-Persons who came into town, Thursday morning, from the Smuggler-Union mine, which is four miles distant, between Marshall gulch and the mountains, say the workers have almost abandoned hope of finding any of the imprisoned men alive. Every entrance to the property is the scene of active work and the willing hands are only stayed by fear of certain death if they enter the smoke-filled levels.

Every few minutes men make a rush inside, only to crawl back help- for the railway company, was called less and strangling as they meet the foul smoke which fills the tunnels and

The officers refuse to talk, either in giving information or in expressing opinions as to the likelihood of early rescue of the unfortunates yet in the mine. They will only say that the work will be continued until every body has been recovered, and will be hastened in the hope that many may be found alive.

BUILT FIRST LOCOMOTIVE.

Death of Capt. John Lawson, Who Built the First Locomotive Engine in England.

St. Louis, Nov. 22.-Capt. John Lawson, who built the first locomotive engine in England, and who is believed to have been the oldest engineer in the United States, died, Wednesday morning, at the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. E. M. McFadden, in Maplewood, a suburb of this city.

Capt. Lawson's death came suddenly. Although complaining for some time, he was not confined to his bed and started out Wednesday morning, as usual, for his daily walk. When about eight blocks from his home he was overcome and fell on the street. He was placed in a carriage and sent home, but expired immediately after being taken into the house.

Capt. Lawson was born in Manchester, England, August 18, 1805. Suit of Pearson Against the Great Northern Railway Co. Taken from the Jury.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 22.-The suit of Herbert W. Pearson for $1,500,006, against President J. J. Mill, of the Great Northern railway, alleged to be due for location of immense coalfields for a second trial yesterday. The first trial resulted in a disagreement. Yesterday it was expected that another long trial would begin, but counsel, after a conference, agreed to submit the case to Judge Kelley on the testimony taken at the former trial, and on briefs to be filed alternately.

Mr. Pearson, a man interested in scientific matters, claimed to have located in the west extensive areas of coal fields for the railway company, and that he had not been paid as agreed. The amount of coal he claims to have discovered for the railroad company aggregates nearly 100,000,000

It is exceptional that a case of such importance is thus withdrawn from a jury and submitted to a judge, who is to pass both upon the law and the evidence.

The difficulty of bringing scientific and abtruse questions before a jury, the great expense of such a trial and the time required, moved the attorneys on both sides to submit the case to Judge Kelly as arbitrator

THE CONSPIRACY IS DEAD.

Gage's letter embodying the above Plans for Overthrowing Canadian Rule the Klondike Collapsed.

> Seattle, Wash., Nov. 22.—The Evening Times of Seattle publishes a story which is offered as confirmation of a story published in the San Francisco Call to the effect that a conspiracy had been planned covering the entire Northwest Territory for the overthrow of the Canadian rule and the establishment of an independent republic.

> The Times, in its article, lays great stress on the story obtained from Fred Clark, formerly a stage manager in this city, but who has been in the Yukon for some time, in which he admits a knowledge of the Order of The Midnight Sun, which is supposed to have been organized for the sole purpose of rebellion. It is claimed that the order was originally instituted in strict secrecy in Dawson, in December of 1900, and from there spread along the length of the upper Yukon with branches as far as Circle City on one hand, and to Skagway and Atlin in the other direction.

It is claimed that men came to Seattle in the interests of the uprising and solicited support in the way of financial contributions. The Times says that no arms were bought.

The total membership of the Order of The Midnight Sun is placed at 1,-500, although the members confidently expected outside assistance that would bring the total of the army of insurgents to almost 5,000. The Times says that in the early days of the organization a circular was issued and secretly distributed to the disaffected miners on the upper Yukon, in which 19 different clauses were given as being causes for an uprising. These dealt with defective mining laws, corruption of officials, royalty, liquor traffic and gambling, delays in the courts, British Columbia alien act duties, miners' and loggers' licenses, and recording fees and boundary disputes. A similar circular was handed to business men of Skagway, in which they were solicited to add financial support to the enterprise, and for a time Clark made his headquarters at the latter place, con-

DICKINSON'S ULTIMATUM.

Is Said He Will Give the Bandits Ten Days in Which to Accept £10,000-Captives Well.

Sofia, Nov. 23 .- Mr. Dickinson, the diplomatic agent here of the United States, has gone to Constantinople, there to confer with Spencer Eddy, the secretary of the United States legation, as to the best means to hastening a solution in the deadlock which has arisen in the negotiations in the release of Miss Stone. Mr. Dickinson will probably return here, bringing with him cash with which to pay Miss Stone's ransom, as her kidnapers indium height, sandy moustache and sist that this payment shall be made in Turkish gold.

Mr. Dickinson is considering the advisability of presenting an ultimatum ten days as the period within which £10,000 must be accepted by the brigands as Miss Stone's ransom. If this proprosal is not accepted by her cap | Maryville tors all dealing with the bandits, so far as the United States is concerned, will cease. If these conditions have not already been dictated by Mr. Dickinson, the ultimatum comprising them will almost certainly be delivered as soon as the American diplomatic agent returns from Constantinople.

BONINE MURDER TRIAL.

Unimportant Testimony Marks the Day's Proceedings-Adjourned Over Sunday.

Washington, Nov. 23 .- Five witnesses were heard, yesterday, in the trial of Miss Ida Bonine for the murder of James S. Ayers, Jr. Four of these witnesses were police officers who had gone to Ayer's room after discovery of the body by employer of the Kenmore hotel, and the fifth was W. W. Warfield, who was proprietor of the hotel at the time of the tragedy. The policemen testified tode tails of the wounds, position of the body and arrangement of the furniture in the room. Mr. Warfield's tes timony was very brief. In response to a question by Attorney Fulton, of Mrs. Bonine's counsel, he said that Warrenton Mrs. Bonine had made arrangements to leave the hotel before the tragedy occurred, but both the question and answer subsequently were ruled out

It is understood to be the intention of defense to recall Mr. Warfield later for the purpose of eliciting informa tion from him upon this and other points in Mrs. Bonine's behalf.

Mrs. Bonine's party in the court room was increased, yesterday, by the addition of her brother, Grant Henry, once during the day did Mrs. Bonine display emotion, and that was when the bloody undershirt which had been worn by Ayres on the night of the killing was identified by Officer

The court adjourned until Monday to give the attorneys in the case an opportunity to prepare themselves for the work in hand. Justice Anderson expressed the opinion that the adjournment would expedite the trial
